1 TO 3 MONTH OUTLOOK

A December hike is underpriced; the dollar stays firm through October.

Priced: 72% of a 25bp hike on 28 Oct (CME FedWatch, 28 Sep), dots at 4.1% for year end. View: payrolls beat (+162k vs +53k), core CPI +0.3% m/m and Chair Warsh's "inflation is too high" argue for more than one further move. Positioning: CFTC DXY longs +10k, near a 3-month low after July's record long was cut: not crowded. Change our mind: payrolls under 50k on 2 Oct, a soft 14 Oct CPI, or a hold on 28 Oct.

The rate premium peaks; valuation and fiscal strain start to bite.

Priced: a plateau near 4.1% through 2027, easing to 3.9% in 2028 (Fed SEP). Supportive: positive real rates; net energy exporter with Brent near $107; safe-haven demand on Iran. Against: REER 114, near its record; ~17% rich to EUR on PPP; a 5% 10y and Treasury buybacks leaning on yields. Where we disagree: the market assumes the Fed can outrun a Treasury capping yields.
